

e-NEWSLETTER

Information on workplace rights, safety and health, and accessibility in the legislative branch

Coming Soon: The Congressional Climate Survey

The Office of Congressional Workplace Rights (OCWR) will launch the second biennial Congressional Climate Survey (CCS) in 2022.

The survey will be used to assess the congressional workplace climate, including incidents of harassment and discrimination. Your participation in the survey will help to ensure that legislative branch employees enjoy a safe, healthy, and productive workplace culture.

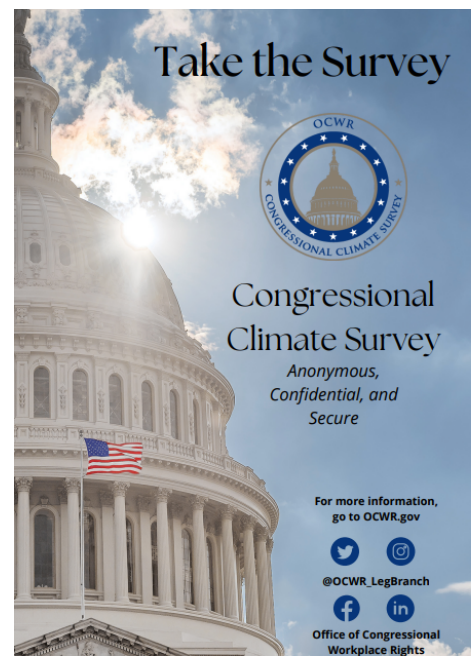

Participation is voluntary, and all responses will be completely anonymous and confidential.

Additional information about the CCS, including launch dates and FAQs, will be included in a forthcoming invitation letter. In the interim, if you have questions about the CCS, you can find FAQs at ocwr.gov, call the OCWR at (202) 724-9250 or email climatesurvey@ocwr.gov.

Implicit Bias Training Video

Implicit bias training is now available at ocwr.gov.

"Addressing Implicit Bias" is a 38-minute video that explains implicit bias, the manifestation of implicit bias in the workplace, and ways to mitigate the effects of implicit bias to foster a more inclusive work environment.

TRAINING CORNER

The OCWR will be hosting a monthly pop-up training series on the Congressional Accountability Act (CAA). This webinar will explain the role of the OCWR in administering and enforcing the CAA, review the rights and responsibilities of covered legislative branch employees under the CAA, and outline the OCWR's administrative dispute resolution process for resolving claims. Register below.

February 24, 2022 at 12 pm | March 31, 2022 at 12 pm | April 28, 2022 at 12 pm

Don't miss our updates: Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, and Facebook

OFFICE OF CONGRESSIONAL WORKPLACE RIGHTS

110 2ND STREET SE, ROOM LA 200 WASHINGTON, DC 20540
(202) 724-9250 | WWW.OCWR.GOV